Show ‘Em!

Parent Letter

Dear Parents,

An ambassador is an official representative or messenger for someone in authority. That’s a fitting job description for missionaries like the Rigneys who carry Jesus’ message to the people of London, or for Kids On Mission, who represent Jesus in their schools and communities. Our current set of missions experiences are designed to prompt boys and girls to take their roles as Jesus’ ambassadors seriously!

This month’s focus verse is Luke 11:28: We are ambassadors for Christ, certain that God is appealing through us. We plead on Christ’s behalf. 2 Corinthians 5:20 (HCSB). Each time your family embarks on a car ride—whether it’s to the restaurant, ball practice, grocery store or a family reunion—pause in the parking lot. Ask: What can we do to represent Jesus here?

For fun, find and watch a movie classic set in London. Ask your child to identify some of the notable landmarks that appear in the movie—we played a game to learn about them. Check out the resources at kidsonmission.org. Watch the “Show ‘Em!” video clips with your child. Invite him to share his learning experiences with you.

An important way you can help your child be an ambassador for Christ is by teaching him or her to give regularly and faithfully. What’s the best way to do that? Set an example! Let your child see you preparing your offerings for church or making arrangements to give online. Encourage your child to set aside a portion of his or her earnings. Participate in the offering time at your church worship service together. Express your confidence that your family’s tithes and offerings help God’s kingdom grow.

We love helping your child learn about missions. Thanks for letting us do that!
