

I live in a small hut with a tin roof that helps to keep the rain out of my house. But when the river floods, my family still gets very wet!

My family eats fruits that grow in the jungle, vegetables that we raise in our garden, and fish (like piranha and wolfish) that we catch in the river.

I live deep in the jungle. There are no roads. We travel by boat when we leave the village.

We don't have nice kitchens in our huts. We cook our food over small fires that we build outside our homes.

Every day we have to watch out for scorpions and poisonous spiders that live in the jungle. We also have to protect our food from monkeys and other animals.
