

Dear Parents,

Through Kids On Mission, your kids have been learning about places where sharing the Gospel is hard and sometimes dangerous.

Avery Claman's* parents are Christian workers in a place that is not very friendly to Christians. The Clamans are trying to start churches in their town, but in this part of the world, it's hard work. It can be dangerous to share the Good News. They pray that God will help them be brave and faithful to do what they have been called to do for Christ.

Visit kidsonmission.org and watch the video, Just an ordinary kid, about Avery and his family. How can your family pray for the Clamans?

God wants everyone to hear about Jesus. He asks believers to be obedient to go everywhere, no matter the cost. Your kids were challenged to give up something they love (like pizza or video games) for a time, so they can realize what it's like to give up something they love for the sake of Christ. When they start to miss this item, they should be reminded to pray for those who have given up everything to be obedient to Jesus. Ask them if they are taking this challenge and encourage them.

Thank you for being a family on mission.
