

Most families in India do not have clean water that comes into their homes. They have to go get their water from a pump, which they share with many neighbors.

Children help families by carrying water several times a day from the village pump. In some villages, the pump is several miles from their home.

IMB mission teams work to fix water pumps and also tell the people in the villages about Jesus. The Christian workers there need our prayers.

